Underlying Concept:

With the gradual move into the 2030 development Agenda, the UN Secretary General, Mr. Ban Ki Moon noted that "Sport plays an important role in society. Sports encourages individuals to take on challenges, build strong relationships and strive with others towards shared goals.

Sports help keep kids in school, promote leadership skills and healthy lifestyles, and empower marginalized people. And at times of conflict and unrest, sport provide victims with space to heal and grow.

The adoption of the 17 set of goals and its target has positioned sustainable development agenda to include all that are needed to ensure that every of the goal and targets achieve its desired outcome by 2030.

The underlying emphasis has remained on the clarion call of "Leave No One Behind". In considering the objective of the new agenda, sport is the integrating factor to world peace and development, an integrative tool that brings old and young to spirit of oneness, a human right that must be globally respected and an active teaching and learning aid to correct behavior tendencies among youths and peers.

Sports is a strong tool for achieving peace and through the activities of United Africa Football Club, African youth will begin to understand the significant need to nurture their positive skills and talents to sustainable development for the future we want for our generation.
